Here are seven tips to help you win back your ex even if he's moved on with his life with someone else.

Do you think that getting your ex back even though he's moved on impossible? Remember this...nothing is impossible. Don't sit around weeping because you lost him. Do something about it and win him back. Here are seven tips to help you win back your ex even if he's moved on with his life with someone else.

Tip Number 1 - Convincing Him

If you're really serious about winning him back, you have to convince him that he still loves you and wants you back too. Chances are your ex will still have a little to do with you so try using the steps below to convince him that he still loves you.

Tip Number 2 - Friends

Always be a friend to your ex. Even if your breakup tore you both apart, try being there for him when he needs a friend to lean on or a sympathetic ear to listen to his problems. Show him that you can still be friends without the drama of the past creeping back up. Joke and laugh with him. Learn to be friends once more. Before he knows it, his feelings for you may be ignited despite the fact that he is in another relationship.

Tip Number 3 - Sweet but Sassy

Every man wants a woman who is kind but also one that is a bit sassy. You want your ex boyfriend to want you but you need to show him that he can't have you just because he wants you for the moment. Don't play games with his heart but don't give in easily either.

Tip Number 4 - Flirting/Jealousy

You always want to play a little hard to get without overdoing it. You certainly want to hang out with your other friends and go on dates with other people. Jealousy isn't a bad thing in certain cases because he leads him to believe that you aren't as available as he thought which might make him desire you further. However, if you do it too often, it can backfire and leave you cold.

Tip Number 5 - Avoid Being Desperate

The key to winning back your ex is to play the whole thing cool. Never let him know that the breakup hurt more than you let on. Make him aware that everything is fine the way it is and you would like to be his friend. Certainly acting desperate will only push him further away.

Tip Number 6 - Catching Each Other's Eyes

Try catching glances at each other when you can. Any glance toward each other lets the other person know that they are thinking about them.

Tip Number 7 - Reminders of the Past

Remind him of the good times you shared together. When you talk about the good memories, you force him to rethink about them too. How good you used to be together and why it never should have ended. If you can, avoid talks on bad memories or why the breakup occurred.

By following these seven simple tips, you are on your way to get your ex boyfriend back even if he's moved on with his life. Use your brain and your heart to see that your goal of winning him back is attained.
