All of us intend to play with our kids. Parents always love their offspring that gives them a feeling of pride and comfort. Production of children requires successful sexual intercourse between a man and a woman. Both of them must be healthy enough to give birth to a child. It is the mother that produces a child with the help of man's sperm that enters her through the former's penis.

Causes of infertility - Few couples lag behind in terms of their poor health for production of a child. It is known as infertility. Men may be challenged with low motility or sperm count. Malformation of the sperm in the males may also be the reason of infertility while blocked sperm ducts or hormonal disorders could also be responsible for men's inability to make the women pregnant. Any problem to fallopian tubes or cervical / hormonal disorders may lead to infertility problems in the women. They may be challenged with uterine problems or unexplained infertility. Anatomical or physiological causes may also cause this ailment in the women.

Large numbers of conventional treatments are available that boast of making the women pregnant. They claim that can help the men and women to enjoy the pride of their offspring. But it is not so as many of them often result in adverse impacts rather than giving any good results.
