Subliminal messages, or hidden messages, contain a hidden stimuli with a planned response.

With the recent advances in technology, subliminal messages can now be created and distributed with a standard computer by the average person. The applications range from self help to seduction and from advertising to weight loss. People use subliminal messages to create desires, expectations and beliefs about anything they desire through subconscious programming.

Subconscious programming is exactly like setting an airplane on auto-pilot. Once your subconscious mind understands clearly what you want, it will draw the object of your desire to you and guide you to it automatically.

Most people have experienced this and label it as "good luck" or "bad luck" and leave it at that. It has been scientifically proven that the subconscious mind controls the results that we experience in our lives. In other words, what you think, feel and believe about yourself right now determines what your results are going to be right now.

Your subconscious mind is an amazing "recorder". It has recorded and stored everything about your life and uses the information it has stored towards your life right now. It has stored all of your thoughts, attitudes, emotions and experiences. This is what you draw from to make your decisions from minute to minute right now.

This is where the secret lies...

GET THIS...

You can plant "manufactured" images, experiences, feelings, attitudes and thoughts in your vast memory bank and, if done properly your subconscious mind will not know the difference between these real experiences and these new manufactured experiences and images. You can choose to plant new experiences, attitudes and beliefs that will support you in any direction that you want to go. Literally, every thought that you think gives birth to a creation. EVERY thought has creative power. The subconscious accepts whatever you pretend is real and will use it to create your outer reality. The thoughts that you think, regarding those things that you want, set into motion the creation, and eventual fulfillment of that which you want. And likewise, the thoughts that you think, regarding those things that you do not want, set into motion the creation, and eventual fulfillment of that which you do NOT want.

The inner desire of the wise and conscious soul is to externalize, to create a tangible manifestation of what it internally holds to be true and thereby experience that belief. It is through that experience that the transformation occurs. Your life is not your master, it is your child. Every moment of your life is infinitely creative and the universe is endlessly bountiful.
