

Suicidal Mass Murderers Might be Psychologically Controlled for Power Aims

An international feudal network aiming to take full control of nations and their inhabitants create many of the suicidal mass murderers and use them for power objectives.

USA and Europe experience an epidemic of terror attacks where apparently lone wolves kill and hurt many people and usually commit suicide, either by the terror action itself or shortly afterwards. These incidents all seem to constitute a coordinated program.

Those that can benefit from this terror epidemic of killing and terror is a multinational feudal network of immensely rich persons and powerful corporations that want to subject all other humans to a tight surveillance, and a detailed control in realtime of everything one thinks, say and do privately and publicly. This feudal network operates through loyal deep state fractions nationally. Weapon control is just one aspect of the intentions of these people. Prison and slavery planet for most humans is their goal.

The network has for several years performed a now near completed state coup by taking almost total control of the societies in the western countries from within by use of international organs like the United Nations, European Union, NATO, Red Cross, Save the Children Foundation, the international banking system, and other supernational organizations. It has however experienced some setbacks at the latest time.

This feudal network with national government fractions as helpers will always use these mass murder episodes to advocate even greater control of most of us, and the fear these episodes create in the population is used to make people accept loss of freedom and tight control, because many people believe they thereby get safe, which of course is the opposite of the truth.

This feudal network probably create many of those mass murderers and direct their actions, by use of advanced psychiatric methods. Even when the incident really happens to be the action of a lone wolf, it will be used for all what it is worth by this network.

Those they prefer to use are likely to harbour strict moralistic principles, believe in fundamentalistic religious principles or have experienced some degree of exploitation by the society which gives them some thirst for revenge.

The network is steadily at a hunt to find persons with this psychological setting. It also cooperates with religious or political institutions that give kids such a foundation by repeated indoctrinations from early childhood.

But this indoctrination is in most cases not enough to make a person into a human robot totally devoid of own free will, with a drive to perform effective and gruesome, but utterly illogical actions from any standpoint of own interest.

Recruiting agents are steadily inspecting social environments that seem suited for use and then they make a tighter contact with the person by use of some role they have in society, or pretending to have such a role in a way the targeted person will feel as a personal support.

Roles they play for this purpose can be as religious leader, sport coach, youth club worker, social worker, doctor, child protective worker, gang leader, just an older supportive friend or whatever else role that fits into the social environment the targeted person is frequenting and the emotional need of the targeted person.

Then they use advanced psychiatric techniques in order to brainwash the target, and eventually also help them with necessary equipment.

The primary recruiter will gradually introduce the targeted person to experts and institutions that perform the programming, but the targeted person will not be aware of what happens to him, because he will be told vicarious explanations and be set in psychological states that make it difficult to remember details by means of subtle anesthetic techniques.

The programming techniques have been developed more or less secretly by programs run by certain secret services, like CIA, cooperating universities and cooperating mental institutions. The techniques used are:

- Drugs prescribed by cooperating psychiatrists that set the person in a permanent state of a certain sedation or agitation, like diazepam, amphetamine or ritalin, or publicly unknown drugs.
- Anaesthetic drugs that take away some of the conscious functions, and memory of the actual programming event.
- Psychiatric drugs that facilitate conditioning and programming.
- Electromagnetic waves of certain frequencies directed at the person which reduces the consciousness and set the person in a mental state for easy conditioning and programming.
- Electromagnetic waves with frequencies carrying certain messages.
- Psychological methods from the behaviorist school, often done in a covert way, for example masqueraded as play or game.
- Religious or political propaganda directed at the person in the altered state.
- Causation of pain, sexual excitement or other feelings used together with the propaganda and the psychiatric methods.
- Hypnosis directed at the person already set in a susceptible mental state, also this often masqueraded as something else than what it is.
- Audiovisual performances that the person see and listen to in a sedated state with reduced ability to reason, usual performances with the aim of supporting hate against certain groups and loyalty to other.

The programming of such zombie robots is often a long term project. The programming usually begins when they are small children in kindergartens, religious schools or other places where one takes care of children, and the recruiters direct them during their childhood to attend places and services where the brainwashing continues.

The young person may not even be aware of what is going on by themselves, because the brainwashing process typically happens under use of anesthesia that makes them forget the exact circumstances of the brainwashing process.

When they finally are called on to fulfill their suicide raid, they do it under a mental state where parts of the intellectual reasoning and emotional capacity are switched off, while the practical reasoning and emotional urges necessary to do the mission are in overdrive.

By Knut Holt

For more information about society, psychology, sexuality, natural disease cures and fitness techniques, please see:

http://www.abicana.com/health_information.htm

<http://www.mydeltapi.com/erotic-products.htm>

This article is free to be used by anybody anywhere, provided the name of the author and his links are at place. The text must not be altered, except that language errors can be corrected if found.

Author: Knut Holt

Article downloaded from page eioba.com