However, it's not difficult to write a good essay or you can ask to pay someone to write my essay when you are short by the time, and in this article, we are going to show you how:

1. Adopt the right approach:

Before you start writing, it is necessary to get yourself into the right approach. Give yourself a pep talk, and keep your aim in mind; you can do your best to impress your teacher. Remain calm, take a deep breath and start writing an essay that stands you out in your class.

2. Switch off your phone and social networks:

Today smartphone and social networks are the main things that might distract you. When writing an essay make sure to sit somewhere quiet where no one will disturb you. These places may be your room, cafe or library.

3. Use a computer to write an essay:

Most students these days type much faster than they write by hands. Using computers while writing an essay make it much easier for you to make changes when required.

4. Read the essay question carefully:

Students when hurry usually doesn't read an essay question carefully and start writing. Never ever do this, as this will create a big hurdle for you in the end. So, always start by reading an essay question carefully and ensuring that you have completely understood what it is asking you to do.

5. Get your books ready:

Make sure you have all the books and articles that help you write your essay. By this, you will not have to go again and again to the library to hunt required books to find the information.

6. Write the introduction and conclusion in last:

Both the introduction and conclusion are the hardest part of an essay so it is better to save them for last. By the time you have completed the essay body, you have a lot of ideas in your mind of writing the outstanding introduction and conclusion.

7. Keep doing the references:

If there is a need for references and bibliography keep doing them as you go along as it will save you precious time.

8. Proofread:

Keep proofreading each sentence or paragraph for typos, spelling, and grammar as you write it. When you have finished writing it is still worth having a quick final read through your essay for a sense check as this should take less time.

9. Avoid copy-pasting:

Copy pasting is plagiarism and considered as a serious crime in the academic world. Don't ever do this! Otherwise, all your work might be rejected or you will be expelled from school.

10. Avoid using too many quotes:

A lot of students due to less time, use too many quotes in their essays; this will not only bolster the word count but also reduce the word count they actually have to write them. Try to avoid doing this as much as you can as this will weaken your essay.

11. Keep your essay clear and concise:

Make sure what you write will understand by everyone. Keep your essay as clear and concise as you can. Avoid writing irrelevant sentences to make your essay long, instead write short and to the point sentences to make your essay stand out.

12. Try changing the scene:

A change of scene can make a big difference. If you normally work at home, try heading towards a coffee shop or library where you find peace for writing.

13. Take a break:

Taking short break time to time will not only keep your focus but also stop you running out of energy. Just take five to ten-minute break, then start writing again and you will see the magic.

14. Keep yourself hydrated:

Keep drinking water from time to time to keep yourself hydrated during writing. Also, keep some healthy snacks in front of you as this will keep you going and make the Essay Mafia writing process more bearable.

15. If stuck somewhere use Google:

If at somewhere you feel you don't have enough research left with you it's ok to use Google for quick research, but make sure the resource you use must be credible and authentic.
