

You Can Get Your Ex Back: Why You Need to Move On Now?

Don't believe that moving means giving up. They are not the same thing. If you want to get your ex back, it is best to move on.

It's tough to deal with a breakup. When one occurs, people become paralyzed, afraid to go on with life. Afraid that if they do they'll lose the chance to get their ex back. Don't believe that moving means giving up. They are not the same thing. If you want to get your ex back, it is best to move on. How is that possible, right?

What does moving on really mean? It does not mean you are giving up on the chance to get a second chance, it means you are showing yourself, your ex, friends, family and the world that you can live without your ex beside you. However, the problem that people are facing is distinguishing the difference between the two. This keeps people from doing the best thing for themselves and their ex after the breakup.

If you move on, you not only help yourself deal with the breakup aftermath but you can fully assess the feelings for your ex, your life and how they come together and mesh. If your ex sees you moving on and getting on with life without them, the chances of him or her feeling the same way are great. If you look as if the breakup meant nothing, they'll certainly feel as if they never should have been without you in the first place.

You don't have to feel like you are moving on, but don't force it either. Show the strength that you feel like you don't have to everyone else; to those who are close to you including your ex and your close circle of family and friends. Showing it makes you look more eye-catching. They may begin to treat you better than ever and your ex may wonder why he or she broke up with you.

How can you put up a front that you've moved on especially if you don't feel like it? There's 2 ways you can do this.

(1) Take care of your appearance - Change your appearance to look better. Buy clothes that flatter your looks. If you need it, start a diet and get some exercise. Lose those unwanted pounds that seem to trip you up. You can also get a haircut or a brand new hair style. If you don't like to smile because of an imperfection, then gets something done about it. There are so many things that you can change about yourself. Pick out a few that you think you need to change first.

(2) Get a social life - Don't let the breakup pain stop you from living your life. You don't want it to completely take over your life. You may not want to live life without them but you need to show them that you can. Go out with your friends. Surround yourself with people who can give you a healthy outlet. If you force yourself to have a good time, you may find yourself having a good time on your own without having to force it.

If you combine these two things together, you'll find yourselves beating off other people who would like to know who you are. Do you have to go out with them? No, you don't. The interest alone that you'll get will help you feel confident and good in yourself.

If you act like you're moving on, you'll find yourself wondering if you really want to get your ex back or if you want to move on and find someone else you want to be with. If you can show him or her how you are now, it may make them take a second glance and want to have a second chance. Try it, it works!
